FOUR KENNEDYS

Editor, The Times:

It seems to me that all this
 "over too many Ken-nedys" in government is slightly dishonest.

I only see three—the President, the attorney-general and the director of the Peace Corps, an unsalaried position.

I call no hue and cry over the three Dulleses during the past administration—the secretary of state, the director of the Central Intelligence Agency and special assistant in the State Department's office of German affairs.

If Ted Kennedy should win a Senate seat, that would be two elective positions out of four held by Kennedys.

Eddie McMahon has more experience in government so maybe he "deserves" to win the Massachusetts primary—but this doesn't always follow.

Also, Mr. Eisenhower would have lost in 1952, and Nixon would have won in 1960.
